To who it may concern:

In the past five years that I have been a head basketball coach, I have found Jack Bullock's website, abaselineview.com, to be very helpful in scouting and scheduling purposes. With the amount of area covered and the quality of each article and sporting event covered, it is easy to see that Jack takes great pride in his work. He truly cares for and enjoys Central and Southern Illinois high school basketball.

His website, abaselineview.com is considered one of, if not the number one source for regular season and tournament scores, statistics and mid-season rankings. In addition, an ever-growing population anxiously awaits his pre-season rankings and team summaries each and every November. It takes a great deal of time and effort to reach out to so many schools and coaches. Jack does that and then some to provide the most detailed coverage of small school basketball anywhere on the Internet.

With his website expanding and improving each and every year, its popularity is rising and fan base expanding as well. Jack Bullock has my utmost respect and his website is a great service to so many of us avid sports fans in Illinois. I highly recommend any potential sponsor to visit "abaselineview.com" and see for yourself the quality of work it possesses.

Please feel free to contact me with any questions you may have.

Sincerely yours,

Sam Root
